From here, a signposted path branches off to the left in the direction of Weitlahnerkopf, which you should follow. Over the so-called Dalsensattel, after a few switchbacks, you reach the somewhat steep Kaminsteig to the Weitlahner. The path leads over the slopes to the Rossalm down to the Haidenholzalm, which invites hikers to stop for refreshments. The route back to Mühlau goes over the Steigstatt past the Blasialm and over the forest path to the Schlechinger Au and over the Mühlbergweg to the starting point.
